Department of Labor gives safety award to Holliston Sand

NORTH SMITHFIELD - The Rhode Island Department of Labor has awarded Holliston Sand Company of North Smithfield the Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association Award for serving "as an example" to other companies on how to provide optimum safety for a workforce.

According to a press release, Holliston Sand gives hundreds of hours of training to its workers.

"We are firmly committed to providing the best training for our workforce," said Holliston General Manager Carmine Iacuone. "Our team of employees is our most valued asset. Their safety is paramount."

The Joseph A. Holmes Award covers the time between April of 2004 and March of 2006.
